InPath DevicesBooth 45

Our original objective was to provide solutions to create "on ramps" to get "real world" data onto the "information superhighway." Our earliest products were barcode readers and wireless data terminals. In 1998 we identified getting "voice data" (phone calls) onto the network as the "next big thing." And, in fact since then Voice over IP products and services have grown to constitute InPath Devices single largest revenue stream. Today we actively service thousands of VoIP installations worldwide and in every state in the union from our offices in Omaha.
